Deric Longden had never thought of himself a cat lover, but from the moment he saw the tiny kitten sitting on an upturned bucket down in the garden he was hooked. Strictly speaking, the little cat belonged to the neighbours, but somehow when it began to rain it seemed only natural to bring him inside, and once there he slipped so easily into Deric's and Aileen's lives that there was an unspoken agreement that he had found his real home. Little did he know that he had entered the Longden world, in which ordinary life is always just a little out-of-the-ordinary.

Aileen being Aileen, it was probably inevitable that sooner or later the kitten would be trapped in the refrigerator for longer than was good for him. And Deric being Deric, the obvious way to thaw him back to life was to make a little coat for him out of an old thermal vest. Thus the cat who came in from the cold got his name- 'Thermal' – and joined the wonderful cast of characters in the ongoing Longden saga.

'The Cat Who Came in from the Cold' combines Deric Longden's unique style of gentle humour with all the comic solemnity and cuddly charm of an irresistible kitten.
